N. E. Citizens and Street Railways. To the Editor of The Evening Star:

I desire to call your attention to an error in your report of the proceedings of the Northeast Washington Citizens' Association in your issue of last evening, which, in justice to all parties concerned, should be corrected. I am reported as follows: "President Tucker said he hoped every member of the association would favor the Old Dominion project, as it will be of vastly more advantage to the people generally than would be the proposed extensions of the Capital Traction line."

This is contrary to my report, in which I said that "the proposed extensions of the Capital Traction line would be vastly more advantageous to the citizens of the northeast, as well as to the people generally, Williams College. Among those present for the reason that the public would therefor the reason that the public would there-by be afforded the advantage of the use of the entire Capital Traction system." I was opposed, however, to the indorsement by the association of the substitute providing for the Capital Traction extensions, for the reason that, in my opinion, the proposition reason that, in my opinion, the proposition was-not presented in sincerity, that the officers of that company had no intention of making any such extensions and that it was intended simply as a bluff for the purpose of defeating the Old Dominion project.

Meeting Addressed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The American Beet Sugar Association held a meeting here yesterday, about twenty-five persons being present, and listening to addresses from officials of the Department of Agriculture. Secretary Wilson told the beet sugar men that his heart was in the development of the home sugar industry.

Dr. Wiley, the chemist, made some suggestions as to the utilization of the byproducts of the factories. Dr. Galloway of the bureau of plant industry spoke of the visit of an agent of the department to Europe, who investigated the working of the seed beet sugar farms of Germany, France

Colorado.

The agent expressed the opinion that he could produce a seed from which could be grown a beet containing 20 per cent of sugar. This is 4 per cent greater than the average of Europe, or a production of eighty pounds more sugar to every ton of beets than heretofore has been obtained. The old officers and beard of discrete officers and board of directors of the as sociation were re-elected.
